

Now Is the Time for Goodbye

My dear friend now is the time for goodbye

before my dreams come true.

You lied to me; you were so unkind to me.

I loved you with all of my heart.

We were a team right from the very start.

They all came and went

But, we stayed strong

I thought we would last

I guess I was wrong

Man I was so wrong

I have to keep this roof over my head before it come tumbling down on me.

Like two halves to a whole, we were in control

We were gonna make this dream come true.

But, life took its toll.

I believed in you, I believed in me.

Boy if I had only known.

From your pain I am now free.

I guess you're happy now.

I thought I meant more somehow.

I guess I was wrong.

Man, I was so wrong

I have to keep this roof over my head; I have to stay true to this new life I have found.

You have new friends and that is alright.

I will let you go without a fight.

Just remember all the good times we shared.

Remember the fate that brought us to pair.

And, I say that's alright I won't fight.

I will never forget the times that we shared.

You friendship, your love and how you cared.

It was good while it lasted.

Now from your life you wish to cast

our dreams, our love, our lives.

I have to keep this roof over my head; you chose another life than me instead.

Now Is the Time for Goodbye

January 15, 2000