

These Are My Words!

In the time of feeling so alone,

I realize that I am alone.

And have been from the beginning.

In the time of necessity and despair,

I realize that I am the only one that will be there.

And have been from the beginning.

This is the way I feel towards everybody.

Your closest friends may fail the test

And pass you up for only a good time.

That only lasts for the same amount of time spent.

By the way who do I think I am?

That the sincerity that my heart brings

Can override the conditioned minds

Of those who think like everyday people.

Why should I feel special in any way?

I know why I should feel special

But, why should I expect people to see things the way I do?

I know I shall see the world
And translate the thoughts in my mind
That bloom like flowers into words chosen of my own.

I am the king of my life, director of my mind
And the controller of my body.
If an ounce of sorry exists it is because I let it!

I must learn to be alone and be happy being alone.
Because the only good company that exists
Is the one within.

I must learn to live with myself.
And be content with only myself.
Because I am the life that that will bring
Happiness to those who show themselves worthy of friendship.

And if I die before I get the chance
To prove these words then my duty goes undone.
The stakes are much too high but, I will take the chance!!!

These Are My Words

1994