

When I Look At You

When I look at you your eyes shine bright.
I embrace your spirit when I'm lonely in the night.
When I look at you I long to hold you tight.
In the hopes that one day you may say you just might.

I see you not often but when I do
I hold you close only with these eyes of blue
I see you not often but when I do
I speak not and know not why I should.

When I look at you I'm filled with these fears.
Even though to me you are only kind and so sweet.
When I look at you this anticipation is so clear.
And with a struggle I settle for defeat.

You see I fear this rejection inside of me.
And I hold back these thoughts that feel so true.
You see I fear you may have a love respectively.
And I don't want to give a wrongful impression to you.

When I look at you your smile fills me with life.
And to these sad eyes you warm fully return my sight.
When I look at you it just feels so right.
If you don't share these feelings then that is alright.

You see my dear it is your friendship that I cherish the most.
I dare not sacrifice this blessing sent from above.
You see my dear it is your gentle stare that has drawn me close.
So it is you that every day I will continue to think of.

When I Look At You

Early 2001